DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

A substitute specification in proper idiomatic English and in compliance with 37 CFR 1.52(a) and (b) is required. The substitute specification filed must be accompanied by a statement that it contains no new matter.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-5 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Fenn et al (WO 01/74499), cited by applicants.

The reference shows the primer coating that may comprise a polyacrylate resin, including butyl acrylate groups, isobornyl groups, cyclohexyl acrylate groups, as recited in claims 2-4, that have been reacted with epoxy groups. Note the paragraph bridging page 6 to page 7. Note claims 1-21 and Examples I-IV and VI.

Art Unit: 1711

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by Johnson (US 4,910,281), newly cited.

The reference shows the production of polyesters that may comprise (meth)acrylate monomers, including cyclohexyl acrylate and butyl acrylate of claims 2-4, with a (meth)acryloyloxy group bonded thereto, as herein recited. Note the Abstract. Note column 11 (lines (27-58).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fenn et al (WO 01/74499) or Johnson (US 4,910,281), as applied to claims 1-5 above, and further in view of either Kucera (US 6,902,766) or Katsura et al (US 5,910,370), both newly cited.

The references to Fenn et al and Johnson both teach the manufacture of (meth)acrylate resins with pendant (meth)acryloyloxy side groups for use as coating/primer compositions. The references fail to teach the employment of the resins with other polymers.

The references to Kucera and Katsura et al both teach the known admixture of (meth)acrylate resins with pendant (meth)acryloyloxy side groups (epoxy acrylates) with other thermoplastic resins, including polyolefins, as recited in claims 6 and 7. In Kucera, note the paragraph bridging column 3 to column 4 and claim 16. In Katsura et al, note column 4 (lines 3-14) and the examples.

Thus, the references to Fenn et al and Johnson both show the identical acrylate resin employed. The secondary references to Kucera and Katsura et al show admixture of epoxide acrylates with other polymers, including polyolefins, is known. A skilled artisan would know to blend other resins with the resins taught by Fenn et al and Johnson. Nothing unexpected or surprising has been shown.
